Aker Chess Challenge

The Gjovik Chess Club in Norway celebrated its one hundredth anniversary by organizing a festival with several component events. One of these was the Aker Chess Challenge, pitting Magnus Carlsen, Peter Svidler, Hikaru Nakamura, and Norwegian GM Kjetil Lie in a rapid round robin followed by mini-matches to determine the final placings. After the preliminary round robin Svidler, Carlsen, and Nakamura were all tied for the lead with 4.0/6; blitz playoffs resulted in Svidler and Carlsen advancing to the gold medal match, while Nakamura and Lie played for the Bronze. Nakamura won the first game and achieved a perpetual in the second to take third place overall; Svidler defeated Carlsen to take the first prize.

Oliver Schulte

He hasn't been very active in chess lately, but as a younger man FM Oliver Schulte crossed swords with players who are now among the best in the world. Oliver shares his memories of some of these battles at <http://www.cs.sfu.ca/~oschulte/chess/chess.html>

IN MEMORIAM

Robert Topic

It is reported that Robert Topic died in hospital a few weeks ago. John Niksic writes: "He is survived by his wife and three children. The family was originally from the city of Banja Luka in Bosnia (site of one of young Kasparov's early successes if I'm not mistaken). The family fled the area during the civil war of the mid 1990's, winding up in Charlottetown, P.E.I. before eventually settling in Vancouver. Robert was a devoted and enthusiastic chess player and organizer. But he had been suffering from a chronic medical condition the past several years which severely curtailed his ability to organize events and play the game he loved. Robert was a generous and caring individual who was very active in the local Croatian community and gave unstintingly of his time whenever called upon. He will be sorely missed."

Robert ran a weekly active event on Sunday afternoons at the Croatian Cultural Centre. When it became know that the site of the 2003 B.C. Open was double-booked, Robert managed to found room for the tournament at the Croatian Centre on very short notice, and surprised us by providing cake and wine for the prize giving ceremony. In 2004 he arranged a friendly team match with a squad who played for Little Mountain House; this was his game with Vas Sladek:

Von Sarac

We also belatedly note the passing of Von Sarac, long-time chess player and organizer in the Bulkley Valley; he was predeceased by his wife Bea (née Snelling), who was B.C. Women's Champion a number of times in the late 1970s. Von was instrumental in the founding of the Northern B.C. Chess Association, and also wrote a weekly chess column in the Smithers Interior News.

WINTER HOLIDAY FUN by Vas Sladek

Once in a while, when I am not changing diapers or playing games with my kids, I think about what it would take to resurrect the North Vancouver chess club and build it up again. But after my recent winter holiday fun online, it dawned on me that any player over 2000 probably has no need to attend a chess club, unless there is a club championship to play for. With easy access to titled players online, for blitz and longer games, no Lower Mainland chess club can match that kind of excitement. The following five games will show you what I mean. Happy New Year!

BCCF MEMBERSHIP FEES

Players, organizers, and tournament directors are reminded that as of January 1st, 2009 the BCCF has a new schedule for its membership fees. The CFC portion of the membership dues is still payable to the CFC, but yearly BCCF fees have been scrapped. Instead, after players' current BCCF memberships expire there will be a per tournament fee ($2 for a one-day, $4 for multi-day adult/open event), to be charged during registration. These fees are to be submitted along with the other tournament materials to the CFC, who will then reimburse memberships fees back to the BCCF.

DIAMOND JUBILEE OPEN, 1973

Thirty-five years ago the BCCF organized a tournament to celebrate the sixtieth anniversary of the federation. Held in New Westminster on the five days between Christmas and New Year's (two rounds a day), the event attracted a total of sixty-three players including the Canadian Champion, Peter Biyiasas. The tournament was directed by Ray Kerr, who used a pairing system of his own invention: the first six rounds were paired as a regular Swiss, but for the last four rounds players were paired by class. Class players were only eligible for the top prizes by playing in the master section, but could at any time compete just within their class if they so chose. (A similar declaration system was used at the Canadian Open in Kapuskasing in 2003.) The entry fee was $20 or $5 for juniors; CFC membership was $5 per year, plus an additional $2 for BCCF dues. Prizes were $150/$100/$50 overall, with $50/$30/$20 in each of the classes along with various trophies and book prizes.

Winner of the first prize was Peter Biyiasas with an undefeated 9.0/10, a full point ahead of second-place finisher Alan Hill; Bruce Harper and Jonathan Berry tied for third. In the various classes prizes were won by: Leo Stefurak, Dan Scoones, Ken Morton, and Dave Shapero (Expert), Leslie Vitanyi, Ken Baker, and Gerry Forbes (A), Francisco Herdocia, Kenneth Forman, Robert Linning, and Robert Niemi (B), William Tate, David Karch, Jim Craigen, and Robert Hooker (C), and James Flemming, Gerry Behnsen, and Derek Lactin (D and unrated). Tom Strothotte won the junior section ahead of Terry MacKay and Tony Pascuzzi. Curiously it appears that the BCCF got the date of its anniversary wrong; all available contemporary sources indicate the federation was founded in 1916, so one wonders on what basis the earlier date was commemorated ...
