San Sebastian International Open (April 16-23)

IM Leon Piasetski, along with GM Kevin Spraggett, is currently playing in an event in San Sebastian, Spain (or Donostia in the Basque language). San Sebastian was the site of two important tournaments in 1911 and 1912, won by Capablanca and Rubinstein respectively, but for the past thirty-three years has been the location of an open tournament. This year's edition has attracted 173 players; the top seeds are Spraggett and Viktor Korchnoi, as of last month an octogenarian. After six rounds the lead is held by Spanish IM Javier Moreno Ruiz with 5.5 points, a half point ahead of four trailing players (including Korchnoi). Piasetski is part of a large group a further half point back, while Spraggett lost his first game in round six and now leads the 4.0 score group. tournament website video report on youtube

Alexandra Botez

Alexandra with Karsten McVay and Michael Khodarkovsky

Formerly of Burnaby but now living in Clackamas (a suburb of Portland, Oregon), junior Alexandra Botez (current Canadian U16 Girls' champion) has been on quite a tear of late. Back in Bulletin

#210 we reported that she had won the High School Girls' section of the Susan Polgar National Open; part of her prize included a scholarship to Texas Tech University, valued at $40,000 for out of state students. Well, on the weekend of April 8-10 Alexandra won another major national championship. Andre Botez writes:

"Last weekend in Chicago (IL), Alexandra won the All-Girls' US Open National Championship. This is a tournament organized by the Kasparov Foundation and sponsored by the USCF and University of Texas at Dallas. This year there were two Canadian girls playing, Alexandra and Melissa Lee (CFC 1562) from Windsor, ON. Melissa, who is also fifteen years old, played in the U18 and also had a fantastic event, including a draw against the highest-rated player in the tournament, Anna Matlin (2080 USCF - a member of the US National Youth Team for the last six years).

Alexandra won the eighteen years old and younger section with an undefeated 5.0/6, which entitles her to an Academic Distinction Scholarship to the University of Texas at Dallas, valued at $105,000 for an out-of-state student. This scholarship covers the complete cost of tuition and mandatory fees through eight semesters (four years) of enrollment. In addition, it also provides a contribution of $1500 per semester toward rental expenses incurred at University on-campus housing. For Alexandra, this is the second chess scholarship she has won in the last two months, after winning in March first place in the Susan Polgar National Tournament for Girls and a $40,000 scholarship at Texas Tech University. Alexandra was the third-highest rated in her section at the beginning of the tournament. She confidently won her first four rounds, quickly taking the lead in the event. She defeated Yu Xuo from Illinois (who eventually finished second, with her only loss being to Alexandra) in the third round, and dominated Emily Tallo from Indiana (who came in third) in the fourth round. She headed into the last two rounds with a perfect score. Being ahead of her competition, Alexandra played conservatively and drew her last two games to ensure her first place in what was undoubtedly the toughest section of the event."

Since then Alexandra has not been resting on her laurels. The weekend after the All-Girls' Championship she tied for first with Nick Raptis and Curtis Brooks in the fifty-three player Clark Harmon Memorial in Portland with 4.5/5. Incidentally this victory pushed her USCF rating to 2048 (she first went over 2000 as a result of the All-Girls' Championship). And this weekend she will be in action at the Grand Pacific Open in Victoria - there is still time to enter, if you haven't already done so. USCF crosstable USCF report

April Active (April 10)

Butch Villavieja is making it easy to write these reports - as in March, he won the latest active event with a perfect score of four wins. Tied for second a full point back were Hee Seid and Alexey Lushchenko. The tournament only attracted fourteen players and was missing its usual large contingent of juniors - they were recovering from their exertions at the Provincal Chess Challenge the previous day. crosstable

PROVINCIAL CHESS CHALLENGE

The Chess Challenge finals, normally the largest junior event of the year in these parts, was held at the Executive Airport Plaza Hotel on April 9. One hundred and eighty-seven players from all over the province competed in grade sections to determine who will represent B.C. at the National Chess Challenge, coming up in Victoria on the May long weekend. Perhaps because the nationals are being held in B.C. for the first time ever competition was stiffer than usual, and four of the sections required playoff games to determine a winner. In grade 5 this was something of a surprise, as world U10 champion Jason Cao was held to a draw in the last round by Humphrey Shao and only won the playoff game after Shao spurned a further draw offer. John Doknjas overcame a 150-point rating differential in the grade 6 section to first tie Dezheng Kong and then beat him in the playoff game. On paper the grade 7 section looked to be the most competitive of all, with four strong contenders; this was born out by the fact that of the five regular games between these four players, only one was decisive (all the others were drawn). Jeremy Hui and Matthew Herdin came out on top with 4.0 points each, with Herdin winning the playoff game.

The grade 11 section proved to be the most protracted in determining an overall winner. Combined with the grade 10 and 12 sections for Swiss pairing purposes, by the end of the regular games four(!) grade 11s were tied for the lead with 3.0 points. This necessitated the use of a knockout formula for the playoffs, but the first game of the final set ended in an unsual manner. Roger Luo, down a rook in an apparently hopeless endgame, resigned by turning his king over, only to realize a couple of seconds later that Bohang Zhang's last move had resulted in a stalemate position. Under the rules both resignation and stalemate immediately end the game, but since the stalemate happened first, this took precedence - the resignation was irrelevant since the game was legally over by that point. After this reprieve Luo won the second playoff game to take the section.

Here is a list of all the prize winners - congratulations to all, and thanks to everyone for participating.

An event like this could not happen without dedicated organizers and volunteers, including principals Ken and Wendy Jensen, Wolfram Herdin, Michael and Lara Lo, and Ron Hui - a thank you to these and all the other helpers who ensured the event ran so smoothly. Also a big thank you to all the chess families that participated in onsite fundraising for the Canadian Red Cross Japanese Disaster Relief Fund - over $400 was raised. full results Richmond Review coverage photo slideshow assembled by Lester Yee shutterfly album

JACK YOOS ANNOTATES

Drkulec, Vladimir - Yoos, Jack [E63] CAN op Toronto (5), 14.07.2010

1.d4 Nf6 2.Nf3 g6 Unfortunately I was unable to locate my games from the early rounds. Like the previous year's Canadian Open I had a bad start and lost an early game. As a result I was trying to catch up on points and decided to play more aggressively with the KID rather than my usual 2...e6. 3.g3 Bg7 4.Bg2 0-0 5.0-0 d6 6.c4 Nc6 7.Nc3 a6 8.e4 Unusual and direct. White continues forward, ignoring square weaknesses in the centre. This would seem like a mistake, but it is not so clear how Black can sieze the initiative. Sure, Black gets control of d4, but posting a knight here in some way constrains Black as it is neccesary to pay attention to maintain this point. 8.d5 is the main line: 8...Na5 9.Nd2 c5 10.Qc2 Rb8 11.b3 b5 12.Bb2 is a well-trodden path. 8...Bg4 9.h3 9.Be3 Nd7 10.Qd2 or 10.Ne2 where in both cases Black has the option of playing for either ...e5 orc5;c5 is achieved by playingNa5 first. 9...Bxf3 10.Bxf3 e5 10...Nd7 11.Be3 e5 12.d5 Nd4 13.Bg2 c5 is similar. 11.d5 Nd4 12.Bg2 c5 13.dxc6 bxc6 14.Be3 Nd7 It is tempting to play ...c5, but this creates a hole on d5. 15.f4 Taking advantage of the knight on d4. Black would normally like to meet f4 with exf4 to open up the long diagonal for the dark-squared bishop, but here it is not possible. 15.b4, asserting control of key queenside squares, is at first sight appealing but it has a downside in that the c4 pawn is then vulnerable. 15...Qe7 16.a4 Nb6 17.Qd3 Qe6 with counterplay. 15...a5 If Black wants to prevent f5 it is possible to play 15...Rb8 16.Qd2 f5 where although there is a lot of tension in the centre, the position is relatively blocked and less double edged. I decided to choose a sharper option and try to get the upperhand on the queenside at the expense of the kingside. Of course this involves considerable risk. 16.f5 Nb6 17.Qd3 a4

18.g4? Allows Black to fight for control of the dark squares. It would have been more challenging to hold off on this commitment.
18...Bf6 19.Bh6 Re8 20.Rad1 Bg5 With counterplay.
21.fxg6 hxg6 22.Bxg5 Qxg5 23.Ne2 c5-/+ And Black is considerably better as he presently has no weak points and White's light-squared bishop is a very poor piece. The question now will be whether Black can find a way to break through before White's pawns can start rolling on the kingside. Waiting to commit by 23...Ne6 was also possible as 24.Qxd6 loses to 24...Qe3+ 25.Rf2 Rad8.
24.Rf2 Re7 25.Ng3
Rb8 26.Nf1 Rd7 27.Ne3 Kg7 28.Nf1 Na8 29.Ne3 Rdb7
30.Rdd2 Nb6 My original intention was to play ...Nc7, but when I got there I became concerned about my a-pawn.

31.Nd1 Rd7 32.Ne3 Qd8 To protect d6 so that my knight could maneuver to f4 and block the f-file. 33.Bf1 Ne6 34.Ng2 And now that the White knight is tied down defending f4, it cannot enter d5. My thinking here was that if I could now maneuver the b6 knight to d4 I would have the game in my hands. 34...Nc8 35.Qg3 Ne7? The wrong path to d4. This allows the kingside pawns to move forward. 35...Na7 to c6 and to d4 was the superior route for the knight. 36.g5! Nc6 37.h4 Now White has considerably more counterplay on the kingside. 37...Nb4 I am not sure if this was the most efficient as it costs vital time for the purpose of provoking a weakness on the queenside. 38.a3 Nc6 39.Rf6 Rb3 40.Qf2 Ncd4 41.Be2 Qa8 42.Bd1 Rb8 43.Qe3 Qa6 44.Qd3 Rdb7 45.Qf1 Qc6 46.Rdf2

A critical moment. Both sides have maximized their threats. I decided to unbalance the position rather than wait. Looking at it now I am unclear which is the better decision. 46...Qxe4 46...Nd8 47.h5 Qxe4 48.Rxd6 N8e6 49.h6+ Kg8 50.h7+ Kh8 51.Rxf7 Rxf7 52.Qxf7 Rf8 53.Qe7 Qb1 54.Kh2 Qxd1 55.Qxe6 Qh5+ 56.Qh3 Qxg5. 47.Rxf7+ Rxf7 48.Rxf7+ Kg8 49.Rf2 Nf5? I missed how powerful the bishop would be on d5. Being a bit low on the clock I played quickly and did not anticipate the idea. 49...Ng7. 50.Bf3 Qd4 51.Kh2? 51.Bd5 would have given White considerable counterplay. After this Black is not worse. 51...Re8 Other moves lose. (51...Kf7 52.Kh2 Ke7 53.Rxf5 gxf5 54.Qxf5 Nd8 55.Qh7+ Ke8 56.Be4 Rxb2 57.Bg6+ Kf8 58.Qh8+ Ke7 59.Qe8#; 51...Nfg7 52.Kh2 Kh8 53.h5 Qg4 54.h6) 52.Kh2

Qg4 53.Qd3 Kg7 (53...Nxh4 54.Bxe6+ Rxe6 55.Qd5) 54.Qh3 Qxh3+ 55.Kxh3 Ned4 56.Be4. 51...Kh7 My original intention was 51...e4 but I got scared off by the exchange sacrifice. It is not clear to me what the assessment of it is. 52.Bg4 e3 53.Rxf5 gxf5 54.Qxf5 Ng7. 52.Bd5 Neg7 52...Nf4 is possible but messy. 53.Nxf4 exf4 54.Qe2 Ne3. 53.h5 Qg4 54.h6 Opening up Black's king with 54.hxg6+ Kxg6 loses the pawns. 55.Qb1 Kxg5. 54...Nh5 54...Qh5+ also looks good for Black. 55.Kg1 Ng3 56.Nf4 exf4 57.Bf3 Qxg5. 55.Be6 Nhg3 56.Bxf5 gxf5? In a time scramble I forgot that I had just attacked the queen! Fortunately it makes no difference. 56...Nxf1+ 57.Rxf1 gxf5. 57.Qd3 57.Qe1 Qxg5 58.Qa5 Kxh6. 57...Rb3 And now that the knight on g3 will be protected White will get mated on h1. 58.Qxd6 58.g6+ Qxg6. 58...Qh5+ An exciting tense fight. I would like to compliment my opponent for his friendly behaviour and good sportsmanship. A long, tense, complicated struggle with time pressure can bring out the worst in competitors and my opponent in this game was nothing but a gentleman. When players behave well, chess is all the more enjoyable. 0-1

FIRST B.C. CHAMPIONSHIP AND FOUNDING OF B.C.C.F.

The fifth annual Grand Pacific Open takes place this coming weekend, but in many previous years Easter saw the holding of the annual B.C. Championship. This tradition dates back to the first championship, which took place ninety-five years ago (to the day) in 1916. Given that the first meeting of the new federation also took place between rounds on day one of the tournament, the B.C.C.F. is also celebrating its ninety-fifth birthday this weekend. To commemorate these events we present the following press reports from the time:

"The Vancouver Chess Club will hold a provincial championship tournament in its rooms, 41 Fairfield Building, during the Easter week. The tournament will open on Friday, April 21, at 10 am. Play ceases at 2 pm. Evening play from 5 pm till 10 pm. On Saturday and Monday the same hours as Friday will prevail. First prize - B.C. Chess Federation championship shield to be held for one year, and gold medal. Second prize - $5, in addition to which each and every player will receive 50 cents for each game won. A prize is being presented for the most brilliant game of the meeting. Entries:

- H. Butler, Vancouver A strong Kent county player, winner of the challenge cup at Tunbridge Wells. A newcomer to Vancouver chess.
- J.M. Ewing Began chess early, and was the youngest entrant in the Richardson cup competition playing for Edinburgh. Played in the Edinburgh team for three years without losing a game. Finished second in this year's Vancouver club tournament.
- C.F. Millar Member of the Toronto Chess Club, captain of Regina Saskatchewan Chess Association. Mr. Millar has done much for Canadian chess, being instrumental in founding the Regina club. Mr. Millar secured a draw with F.J. Marshall, champion of America on the PTO.
- R.G. Stark Played for Hampshire county, and in Hampshire league for Basingstoke. Played for Reading, and the London major league. Won this year's handicap tournament of the V.C.C. from scratch, on occasion of his visit last year, when he gave an exhibition of simultaneous chess.
- A. Stevenson Of the Glasgow Bohemian Chess Club, and played top board in the championship matches of Scotland with good results, winning the championship of the club in 1906 and 1907. A brilliant lightning tournament player.
- B.A. Yates Winner of this year's Vancouver tournament, and a very strong player, as the following record shows: played in county chess for Warwickshire and Stafford for seven years without the loss of a single game. A Birmingham chess club expert, winning various prizes in this extremely strong club.
- Messrs. A. Tree of Alberni, and G. Thompson of New Westminster, complete the list of entries. We have not got their records at present." [Vancouver Sun, Wednesday April 19th, 1916]

"At the first meeting of the B.C. Chess Federation held yesterday afternoon in the Vancouver Chess Club, the following officers were elected: Hon. Vice-president, Mr. Hunnex of Erie; Judge Howay of New Westminster; Mr. T. Piper of Victoria; Mr. C.F. Davie of Victoria, and Neil MacCallum of Grand Forks B.C.; President, Mr. E. Lacaille; Vice-president, Ewan Buchan; Sec-Treas., R.G. Stark." [Vancouver Sun, Saturday April 22nd, 1916]

"In connection with the tournament which is to be held at Vancouver to determine the Provincial championship, we do not think the management is advancing the cause of chess by offering money prizes. Persons who value their amateur standing will not enter the tournament, as to do so would professionalize them. Furthermore the money prizes which are offered are so insignificant in amount that they could not even be an inducement to a professional player. Had the management decided to eliminate the cash prizes, the contest would be open to amateurs, and the promoters would have earned the thanks of by far the major portion of the chess fraternity of the Province." [Victoria Daily Colonist, Sunday April 23rd, 1916]

1916 B.C. Championship, 21-25 April

"Mr. J.M. Ewing of Vancouver, one of the leading chess players on the Pacific Coast, is the first recognized champion of British Columbia. Going through the first annual tournament to be held under the auspices of the new British Columbia Federation, Mr. Ewing was successful in all of his matches, finishing with an unbeaten record. Messrs. B.A. Yates, H. Butler and R.G. Stark tied for second place with four and one-half points each. A. Stevenson was third with four points; F. Miller [sic] next with two and one-half points; A. Tree fifth with two points, and Mr. Thompson last without a victory to his credit. He was unable to play all his games. Mr. Ewing's win of five victories and two draws was particularly good when it is taken into consideration that he was up against some of the cleverest chess players in Western Canada, and his work fully entitles him to the position of British Columbia's chess champion." [Vancouver World, Tuesday April 26th, 1916]

"Messrs. Ewing and Stevenson are Scottish players, whilst Yates, Butler, and Stark played for Warickshire, Kent, and Hampshire, respectively. Mr. Millar is a Toronto player, and played considerably better chess than his score would indicate. Mr. Tree, of Alberta, only lacked book-knowledge to prove a really dangerous opponent. Mr. Thompson was unable to complete his games and lost some by default. It is unfortunate that no Victoria representatives were able to play, but we hope to see them in next year's tournament. We have been hard hit by the war, several of our members having enlisted, but were fortunate in getting as strong an entry as we did, the big distances being against up-country players entering."
