July Active (July 17)

The latest active tournament found Butch Villavieja in a not unfamiliar role, that of tournament winner - his score this time was 4.5/5. Other prize winners included Robert Chow, Jack Cheng, Constantin Rotariu, and Philip Chen. Twenty-one players participated in the event, held as usual at the Vancouver Bridge Centre and organized by Luc Poitras. standings

Banasque Open (July 7-16)

Vancouver-based IM Leon Piasetski returned to the Pyrenean town of Banasque for the thirty-first edition of this international open (he also played there last year). The tournament attracted over four hundred players, including thirty-one grandmasters. The clear winner was Tigran L. Petrosian (Armenia - no, not the former world champion, he was Tigran V.) with 8.5/10; Leon Piasetski finished in a tie for forty-fifth with 5.5 points. crosstable

PanAmerican Youth Championships (Cali, Colombia, July 3-8)

After a forfeit win in round one and the loss given last issue, Dezheng Kong won five games in a row to place himself second after seven rounds in the U12 section of the PanAmerican Youth Championships. Unfortunately he lost his last two games, leaving him with a final score of 6.0/9 and a tie for tenth place out of eighty-nine players. The only other Canadians were Jiaxin Liu (U10G) and Jackie Peng (U14G), who finished with 5.5 and 6.0 points in their respective sections. It has been a long time in coming, but the CFC website has received a complete redesign/ makeover. There have been the usual bugs one associates with such a venture, but at the moment the site is stable and operational. Explorer the CFC's new look at www.chess.ca.

Bobby Fischer Against the World

Liz Garbus's film documentary on the tragic life of Robert James Fischer, the "pride and sorrow of chess" to appropriate a phrase applied to an earlier American champion, is being screened in Vancouver later this month at the Vancity Theatre. The showings are taking place on the evenings of July 22nd, 23rd, 26th, and 28th. Further details can be found at the Vancity website, also Jonathan Berry interviewed the film's director for the Globe and Mail. The host for the July 22nd screening ("VIFF Social Club") will be Nathan Divinsky.

CANADIAN OPEN (July 9 -17)

This year's Canadian Open was held at the same location as last year's event, the Westin Harbour Castle Hotel in Toronto. Conditions were reported as being excellent, with many side events (GM simuls, a junior chess camp, speed chess championship, blindfold simultaneous display by Ben Finegold). The nine-round Swiss was won by GMs Joel Benjamin, Dejan Bojkov, and Walter Arencibia, each scoring 7.0/9. The thirteen-player tie for fourth place included several Canadians, among whom was B.C.'s Bindi Cheng. Bindi also had the satisfaction of achieving his third IM norm with a round to spare (he scored the require 6 points before his last game):

+	WCM	Yelizaveta Orlova	CAN	2050*
+		Tanraj Sohal	CAN	2032

=	GM	Alexander Shabalov	USA	2577
=	GM	Victor Mikhalevski	ISR	2569

6.5				2340

*raised to the adjusted rating floor for an IM norm

Bindi's previous two norms were achieved at the 2007 Canadian Open and 2009 World Open (see Bulletin #124 and Bulletin #168 respectively; the former also includes a general description of the process of gaining a title). Having amassed enough norms to cover twenty-seven games, the only other requirement is to attain a FIDE rating over 2400 at some point. As a result of this tournament Bindi's rating will surpass 2400 on the next ratings list in September, so all criteria for the title will have been met - congratulations!

The other major B.C. success story was John Doknjas, who was among the leaders in the U2000 Section most of the time and finished in a four-way tie for first place with an undefeated 7.0/9. This result propelled him into the expert class for the first time. Alexandra Botez and Jason Cao also experienced significant rating gains; Alexandra was fortunate enough to win two games on time, against FM Vladimir Pechenkin and IM Lawrence Day respectively, despite the fact the time control included a thirty-second increment. A complete prize list has yet to be made public, but it appears that B.C. juniors Dezheng Kong and Tanraj Sohal tied for the second U2200 prize with 5.0 points. And B.C. champion Jack Yoos played one of the more fun games, a Double Muzio Gambit against Michael Barron in round eight.

CYCC (July 6-9)

By the end of the Canadian Youth Chess Championships in Richmond Hill, Ontario, five B.C. players had finished in the top three in their sections and thus qualified for the upcoming world event: Luke Pulfer (U08), Harmony Zhu (U08G), Jason Cao (U12), Joanne Foote (U14G), and Loren Laceste (U18). Foote and Laceste won their respective sections, with Laceste's result being particularly impressive: ranked seventh at the start of the tournament, he successfully overcame players rated upto 400 points higher than himself. As with last year's competition there were also awards for those in the initial year of the two-year age groups, five of which were won by Neil Doknjas and Patrick Huang (both U08), Joshua Doknjas (U10), Andrea Botez (U10G), and Tanraj Sohal (U16). Congratulations to these and to all our B.C. representatives! Reports indicate the tournament was well organized and run, but was marred by a dispute on the last day between various members of the organizing committee and the CFC on how surplus prize funds should be distributed. It should be noted that a bid has been presented to hold the CYCC in Surrey next year - the outcome of the bid will likely be known by the end of July.

SIRALYI QUICKPLAY (Budapest, July 15-17) by Michael Yip

Three players tied for first with 5.5/7 whilst I tied for fourth with 5.0/7 after going into the last round with 5.0/6. I had White against a strong player and went for the win but failed to make the most of my chances and lost in a short sharp battle. I started well with three wins but my round three game was the product of some luck as my opening position was clearly inferior and I had to struggle to make the position only clearly worse as opposed to dead lost. My opponent helped me by sending his queen off to the queenside allowing me to activate my pieces and soon I was rewarded with a winning attack. In the closing ceremony the winners were given modest prizes and we all shared a glass of wine courtesy of the sponsoring company. There were several place prizes too which included music CDs, caps, and bottles of wine. The first place winner also received a little trophy as well for his efforts.

Round 6 was my best game as I defended against 1.b3 and won with a strong attack after White gave up the bishop pair for what seemed like nothing. Black then built up nicely on the kingside and eventually broke through with a massive attack. The win brought me up to 5/6 with two other players and I went all out for first place in the last game. However, my aggressive play did not get me the desired result and I fell to an easy tactic in a lost position.

The local players are used to seeing me now and bilingual players analyze with me. Hungarian-only speaking players now launch in to long one-sided conversations as I politely nod my head and smile not knowing anything being said to me. Another thoroughly enjoyable weekend tournament but no comparison with the recently completed Canadian Open. Overall I played confidently and was reasonably happy with my play.

Hopefully one or two pairs of pawns will be exchanged to open lines and Black's pieces will invade to mate White's helpless king. 14...Qh5 15.Qd2 c5=/+ 15.Qd3 Rae8!?=/+ Final preparations are ready. 15...e4! Pushing immediately is very strong. 16.Qd2 (16.fxe4 fxe4 17.Qc2 Bh3-+) 16...exf3 17.Rxf3 c5! =/+ Black uses his pawns in typical fashion to take away key outposts from White's knights. 16.Qc2

From here on, Black only plays on the kingside and is unable to use the whole board to his advantage. 16...Qh6!?=/+ Putting all the emphasis on the ...f4 push. 16...c5! =/+ Black wants to play ...e4 and wants to deny White d4. 17.Nd1 (17.dxc6?! bxc6 18.Rae1 Rb8 Black has a second front to work with to stretch out White's defences.) 17...Qh5 18.Nec3 e4 19.fxe4 Ng4 20.Qe2 Rf6 21.Ra2 Rh6, 17.Qd2 Nh5= Putting single minded emphasis on ...f4 but losing most of Black's advantage. 17...c5=/+ is again good. 18.Nd1 f4!? The problem with this aggressive advance is that White gets to use e4 as an outpost. 19.exf4 gxf4 20.g4 Trying to keep the kingside closed but now Black gets an easier target to work against. 20...Nf6=/+ Really tame. 20...e4! never crossed my mind. This line opening breakthrough opens up the kingside for the attack and the whole position for the bishops. 21.Nd4 a) 21.gxh5? The knight cannot be taken. 21...Bh3 22.Nf2 (22.Rf2 e3-+) 22...e3 23.Qe1 exf2+ 24.Qxf2 Bf6! (24...Kf7=+) 25.Bxf6 Qxf6 26.Nd4 Kh8!-+ ; b) 21.fxe4? Bxg4-+ ; 21...Qg6 22.Kh1 Ng7=/+ 21.Nf2 Bd8? Black misjudges the pace of the game and makes an unnecessary additional preparatory move to get ...Re8 more scope. Luckily White does not exploit the slip. 21...Qg5! is more forceful. 22.Kh1 h5 23.Nh3 Qg6=/+ 22.Nc3 Kf7?! Black is playing much too casually. 22...Rf7 23.Kh1 Qh4= 23.Nce4?! A natural move but White could have made life much more difficult with a couple of other moves. 23.Kh1! unclear; 23.c5!? makes the game murky. 23...Nxe4 24.Nxe4 Rg8 25.Rf2?-/+ This is a natural defensive move that anticipates the assault on the g-pawn and plans Rg2 to bolster the kingside. 25.Qg2 Qh4=/+

25...Qg6?! Black plays for a break through normal chess but misses a couple of better choices.. 25...Qh3!-/+ is the same idea but much more aggressively executed. 26.Qe2 h5 White is on the verge of collapse.; 25...Bxg4! wins spectacularly due to some subtle tactical points. 26.fxg4 Rxc4+ 27.Kh1 (27.Rg2 Rxc4+ 28.Kxc4 Qg6+! The point of the combination is to pick off the loose Ne4. 29.Ng3 h5--+) 27...Rxc4 28.Raf1 Qg6 29.Qe1 Ke8! A quiet move that prepares ...Bh4. 30.Rf3 Getting out of ...Bh4 pin trouble but allowing a winning invasion. (30.c5 Bh4--+) 30...Rg2! Threatening ...Rxc2+ with mate and ...Rxb2. 31.R3f2 Bh4--+ 26.Rg2 h5 27.h3 Rh8 28.Ra2-- This contributes nothing to the defence of the kingside but I can't find any move that helps White. 28.a5 Ignoring the kingside loses without a fight. 28...hxg4 29.hxg4 Rh3 30.Qe2 Re8 31.Nf2 The knight is a key defender and holds the kingside together. 31...R3h4! (31...R3h7 32.Qe4 Qg7 33.Kf1! CANADIAN CHESS HALL OF FAME

Povilas (Paul) Vaitonis (1911-1983) is the 2011 inductee to the Canadian Chess Hall of Fame, founded in 2000 by David Cohen to celebrate and promote Canada's chess heritage. Vaitonis was born in Uzpaliai, Lithuania and was one of the many refugees who chose to emigrate to the New World after the Second World War, rather than remain under the Soviet sphere of influence:

Vaitonis fled Russian rule of his native Lithuania in 1944 because "all the time you're afraid. Even if you don't do anything wrong you never know when they'll arrest you." He was scheduled to go to Sweden in a small boat, but this boat and his proposed companions were blasted by bombs in a raid. Vaitonis managed to get aboard another ship, scheduled to run the high-explosive gauntlet, and successfully reached Sweden. He married there in 1948 and came to Canada the following year. After a year's work on a farm he took up cost accounting. He has played chess since he was five, but has no real love of tournament chess. "I like better to play a good game with my friends," he says. [Daily Province, Tuesday, September 4, 1951]

Despite this apparent preference for social play Vaitonis was Lithuanian champion on multiple occasions and represented his country in the olympiads at Folkestone (1933), Warsaw (1935), Munich (1936), Stockholm (1937), and Buenos Aires (1939). He won the championship of his adopted country twice, in 1951 and 1957 (both times held in Vancouver), and represented Canada at the Saltsjobaden Interzonal (1952) and the Amsterdam and Munich olympiads (1954 and 1958). Vaitonis was awarded the IM title in 1952 and at one point wrote a chess column for the Hamilton Spectator, Hamilton being the city where he settled.

A fuller list of accomplishments can be found at the Canadian Chess website. A plaque honouring Vaitonis's induction was presented to his family by the Lithuanian Ambassador to Canada, Ginte Damusis, at the Canadian Open, along with a lecture by Lithuanian GM Eduardas Rozentalis.
