WORLD JUNIOR CHAMPIONSHIP

The World Junior Championship, held in the Armenian capital of Yerevan, ended on October 16. The new World Junior Champion is IM Zaven Andriasian of Armenia, who managed to finish clear first with 9.5/13. The girls' section resulted in a four-way tie for first on 9/13, with WGM Yang Shen of China taking the title on tiebreaks. Canadian Junior Champion Bindi Cheng had a poor start likely due to jet lag (as Jonathan Berry pointed out, the time difference between Yerevan and Vancouver is twelve hours, the maximum possible differential), but had a better second half to finish with a solid 50%, tied for 39th in the 83-player field. Fellow Canadian Nikita Kraiouchkine ended the tournament with 5.5 points.

We hope to have comments and games from Bindi next issue.

Pairings, results, photos, and some games can be found at <http://www.armchess.am/>.

GM SLUGFEST

The Slugfest tournaments have been the brainchild of Washington organizer Clint Ballard. Distressed with the number of short draws in chess, Ballard has proposed a radical new scoring system to enliven the game, the Ballard Anti-draw Point system (BAP):

Black win: 3 points

White win: 2 points

Black draw: 1 point

White draw: 0 points

Any loss: 0 points

Not content with merely theorizing, Ballard has run tournaments using this method and recently tested the system in a GM event, organized and sponsored by Ballard himself. Recruiting players via invitation and qualifying events and with a first prize of $5,000 (US), the GM Slugfest attracted a total of fifteen players (some were substitutes); among them was newly-crowned B.C. co-champion Jonathan Berry. After six rounds of play the standings of those who completed all their games were:

1. GM Victor Mikhalevski (4.5) -10
- 2-3. GMs Gregory Serper (4) and Lubomir Ftacnik (4) - 9
- 4-7. GM Alexander Shabalov (3.5), GM Varuzhan Akobian (4), IM Josh Friedel (3.5), and FM Jonathan Berry (3.5) - 8
- 8-9. GM Julio Becerra (3) and FM John Readey (2.5) - 7
10. IM David Pruess (2.5) - 6

(Bracketed numbers indicate scores using the regular system, the final number is the BAP score.)

Despite being exhausted from the B.C. Championship the previous weekend and sick during the event, Jonathan had an excellent result, substantially better than pre-tournament expectations. Furthermore, the event also has a $1,000 best game prize, to be determined by online voting; of the seven games under consideration, Jonathan was involved in no less than four of them, and at the time of writing his game against Pruess has a large lead in the voting.

Without going into detail, it appears that BAP fulfilled its mandate - the games in the tournament were noticeably more exciting, and the "correct" people finished at the top of the cross table. For much more discussion on the BAP system, along with more detailed reports on the Slugfest and the online voting, see the following websites:

B.C. - WASHINGTON ADULT MATCH

This weekend sees the renewal of formal chess competition between the province of British Columbia and the state of Washington. The match, to be played over ten boards in Bellingham on Saturday, is the fourth in the modern series (the main matches were held 1944-1963). B.C. won in both 2003 and 2004 with identical 6-4 scores, but were trounced 1.5-8.5 last year. The B.C. team has an average rating ten points higher than last year, but the Washington squad has also "bulked up," with the result that B.C. has its work cut out for it in attempting to avenge last year's loss. Good luck to all.
