HALLOWEEN OPEN 2002 by Vas Sladek

Capilano College Chess Club Active tournament October 19, 2002

Organizer Gavin Steininger and TD Balin Fleming combined to put on a successful active event at the Capilano College Chess Club.

Vas Sladek came first with 4.5/5 points after taking a last round bye, 2nd went Gavin Steininger 4.0/5, 3rd went to Balin Fleming 3.5/5 and Jarmila Ruzicka, the only girl in the tournament, came 4th with 3.0/5.

OCTOBER NORTHSHORECHESS.COM INVITATIONAL by Vas Sladek

Fanhao Meng and Eduardo Moura (FIDE 2235) tied for first with 4/5 with Robert North and Vas Sladek finishing in 3rd and 4th with 2.5 and 2 points respectively. There was a last-minute venue change from New Westminster to Capilano College which freed up more money for prizes. When Fanhao was having trouble finding the playing hall before round one, a very anxious Robert North threatened to pull out of the event! Fanhao made it and Robert got his wish with a round one clash. Disaster averted! Eduardo Moura of Brazil performed in line with his FIDE 2235 rating. The event was sponsored by Chess First! Enterprises. Fanhao earned a copy of Fritz 7 and all players received copies of ChessBase magazine EXTRA.

There are still spots open for the November edition of northshorechess.com invitational. Interested players 1800+ are invited to e-mail TD and Organizer Vas Sladek: chessfm@shaw.ca

VANCOUVER JUNIOR GRAND PRIX # 2

A grand total of fifty-four players participated in the second Grand Prix event, held in an almost overflowing room of the Strathcona Community Centre. Most of the players were placed in Quads and played in three-game Round

Robins; the remainder took part in a five-round Swiss. Prize winners from the Quads were: Gavin Atkinson and Jason Lee, Noam Davies and Valentina Goutor, Andrey Kostin and Jeff Haran, Alexander Reid and Bryan Young (tied), Manu Singh and Lesley Cheng (tied), Jasenko Dzinovic and Ovidiu Almasan, and Steven Roller, Lo-Ching Chow and Laura Harper. In the Swiss Raymond Soo and Kevin Au shared first, while Dan Beschea and Neil Atkinson tied for third. Stephen Wright directed, assisted by Katherine Davies.

The current leaders in the Grand Prix are as follows:

Atkinson, Gavin 9.5
Davies, Noam 8.3
Dzinovic, Jasenko 7.7
Davies, Lucas 7.2
Cheng, Lesley 6.9
Almasan, Ovidiu 6.7
Sum, Peter 6.5
Chow, Lo-Ching 6.5

However, there are still six more events to go, so there is plenty of time for the lead to change - remember, you only count your top six results (out of eight events).

30 YEARS AGO by Bruce Harper

Thirty years ago the Chess Olympiad was (also) held in Yugoslavia, although the current host country, Slovenia, is no longer a part of that country. Vancouver's team members, Duncan Suttles and Peter Biyiasas, had excellent results and helped Canada finish 15th in the tournament. Biyiasas was in especially good form, winning eight games and drawing seven, finishing without a loss.

His game against Indonesia's Suradiredja was just the sort of game you want to play in an event like this. Black mixed systems and weakened his dark squares, and found his plans upset by 8.Na3!, which defends the bishop on b5 and threatens 9.Nc4 and 10.Nd6+. This meant Black could not take White's d4-pawn.

Black's 8...d5 was an almost desperate attempt to prevent 9.Nc4, but as so often happens in a difficult position, stopping one threat opened the door to others. White's next few moves were easy, and the natural 12...0-0 turned out to be the losing move. Of course Black knew he was giving up the exchange, but his anticipated compensation evaporated after 14.Bxc5! Having committed a number of chess sins, Black may have thought one more wouldn't make much of a difference, so he took the Queen's Knight Pawn with his Queen. He quickly found his last meal to be easier to eat than to digest.

BC CHESS HISTORY

In a previous issue we discussed John Ewing, who became the first official BC champion in 1916. Before that date there were players who were widely acknowledged to be the strongest player in the province - the best of these unofficial champions was Thomas Piper:

Piper, Thomas Henry (January 30, 1857 - November 26, 1938)

Born in London, England. At some point in the late 1880s Piper emigrated to America via Australia: he landed in California, but lived in Seattle from 1889 to 1893. In 1894 he moved to Victoria, where he was employed in the naval dockyards at Esquimalt as a ship carpenter and caulker. He retired in 1918.

Piper developed into a strong amateur player in his native London. He beat the English champion Joseph Blackburne on at least one occasion, and is said to have made a special study of the French Defence. In the Vizayanagaram tournament of 1883 (the 'minor' event held in conjunction with the 1883 London International) Piper placed 8th in a field of 26 which included von Bardeleben, Gunsberg and MacDonnell. After emigrating to North America Piper held his own against all opposition, and was arguably the strongest player on the Pacific coast for twenty-five years. In 1895 Piper led Victoria in a drawn telegraph match with San Francisco, his expertise in the French Defence coming to the fore on board 1. Just before this match Piper had won a handicap tournament at the Victoria Chess Club (a round robin, those in higher classes giving odds to the players in lower classes) with a score of 35-1(!). In 1896 Piper played a match with the former president of the Montréal Chess Club Joseph Babson, beating him by the score of 7-2. In 1899 Magnus Smith won the Canadian championship for the first time; shortly thereafter Piper challenged him to a match for the title, with a purse of $1,000. This was roundly denounced as turning chess into a professional game, and the challenge was not accepted.

After this Piper seems to have largely withdrawn from competitive play, although he continued to be active in many other areas of the game. He remained a strong opponent in offhand games through the first decades of this century; reports indicate he scored well against all opposition in San Diego, San Francisco and Seattle, as well as Victoria. He acted as referee on several occasions, the most famous being the 1926 simultaneous exhibition by Emanuel Lasker in Seattle. Piper was responsible for coaching a number of Victoria players. His preferred method seems to have been the playing of games at odds: there are reports of games with Partington (many time Victoria city champion) at rook odds, and in 1925 he played a series of games at queen knight odds with Max Enke (two-time B.C. champion). Around the same time Piper took over authorship of the chess column in the Victoria Daily Colonist from C.F. Davie, and continued producing a more-or-less weekly column until the summer of 1931. At the time of his death Piper was honorary president of both the Victoria and Seattle Chess Clubs.

UPCOMING EVENTS

Announcement concerning the B.C. Junior:

This year the BC Junior Championship will not be held as a separate event, but rather it will take place in conjunction with the Lionel Joyner Memorial Tournament. The title of Junior Champion (along with a paid entry and travel support to the Canadian Junior Championship in Shawinigan, January 2003) will be awarded to the junior player who has the best score in the tournament. This gives the juniors a chance to play their peers and at the same time to take part in a strong adult event, while the adults have an opportunity to match wits with the next generation of chess stars while competing against their own peers. Pairings will be by the usual Swiss rules, with the provision that the leading contenders for the junior title will be paired together on the last day. So adults and juniors alike, come and participate in an event honouring Lionel Joyner, who (among other distinctions) was Canada's representative to the 1st World Junior Championship (Birmingham, England, 1951).

Upcoming junior events:

November 9-11 BC Junior Closed/Lionel Joyner Memorial, Vancouver Bridge Centre
November 14-25 World Youth Chess Championships, Crete
November 17 Island Junior Open - # 3 (Victoria)
November 24 Grand Prix # 3, Vancouver Bridge Centre
December 7 Annual BC - Washington Junior Match, Seattle
December 8 Greater Victoria City Championship
