As things currently stand, this will be the last issue of the Bulletin for this year; theoretically there should be an issue on December 23rd, but unless there is something particularly newsworthy in the B.C. chess community in the next two weeks, I will resume publication in the New Year.

That being the case, I wish to take this opportunity to wish you all the best of the holiday season - see you in 2005!

To subscribe, send me an e-mail (swright2@telus.net) or sign up via the BCCF (www.chess.bc.ca) webpage; if you no longer wish to receive this Bulletin, just let me know.

INTERMAT 2004

The 14th annual scholastic match between British Columbia and Washington, held at the History House, Seattle on December 4th, resulted in a resounding 28-20 victory for the visiting team. The teams consist of two players each from grades one through twelve, a total of twenty-four on each side; each player plays two games against the respective opposing grade duo from the other team.

Traditionally Washington has always scored heavily in the lower grades in these matches, whereas B.C. tends to do better in the upper grades; indicative of this are the grade one scores for the past four years, where B.C. has only managed to obtain one point out of eight games. The match is thus determined by which team can do better in their respective area of strength, or improve in their area of weakness.

In the first round the Washington lower grades took an 8-4 lead (incidentally the same score they achieved last year when Washington won the match) over their B.C. counterparts, but in the upper grades B.C.'s superiority led to a 9.5-2.5 demolition of the opposition, resulting in an overall 13.5-10.5 B.C. lead at the halfway point. In the afternoon round B.C.'s upper grades continued their winning ways, scoring 8-4, so everything came down to whether the Washington lower grades could obtain a large-enough score to even the match. As it turned out, the B.C. players produced one of their best performances in a number of years, not only holding their Washington counterparts but actually managing a slim 6.5-5.5 victory. Thus B.C. won the match with the overall score of 28-24.

B.C. players who won both their games were Donovan Zhao (grade 2), Louie Jiang (6), Richard Huang (7), Tiffany Tang (9), Valentina Goutor (10), Fanhao Meng and Lucas Davies (both grade 11), and Ben Daswani and Jason Lee (both grade 12); the other B.C. player with a plus score was Tanraj Sohal (3). On the Washington side Wesley Yu and Zamir Birnbach swept their grade one opponents, Igor Ummel won both his games in grade 5, and Michael Omori and David Inglis both had plus scores in grade four.

Many thanks to the Washington players and organizer Kirk Winges (on behalf of America 's Foundation for Chess and the Washington High School Chess Association) for their hospitality and sportsmanship; the B.C. team was organized by Katherine Davies and Bill Lee, acting for the British Columbia K-12 Chess Association.

A Washington report on the match: <http://www.whsca.org/Intermat2004Article.html>

Washington now holds a small 8-6 lead in match victories in the overall series; as players grow older and graduate, it will be interesting to see whether the team dynamics mentioned above continue to hold true. Curiously, neither side has be able to win three years in a row in the overall series:

B.C. JUNIOR

The 2004 B.C. Junior attracted a total of twenty-five participants to the Vancouver Bridge Centre on the November 26-28 weekend. The fourteen-player Championship Section included three players over 2000 (Fanhao Meng, Lucas Davies, and Andrey Kostin), and in the end these three tied for first with 3.5/5 each. Favourite Fanhao Meng won his first three games and drew with Davies in the fourth round, but seemed psychologically unprepared when Kostin used one of Meng's own defences (the Schliemann Ruy Lopez) against him in the last round, losing in under twenty moves. Kostin executed a Swiss gambit (not voluntarily!), going down to defeat against Ivan Petrov in the first round but entering the winner's circle by virtue of his victory over Meng. Davies played solidly, if slightly below expectations; his three draws left him as the only undefeated player in the Championship Section.

Close behind the three winners was another triumvirate, consisting of Ben Daswani, Ivan Petrov, and Sam Churchill, who all scored 3 points. Going into the last round Daswani and Churchill both had chances to tie for first, but were held to draws by Davies and Peter Sum respectively. (Absent from the competition was Noam Davies, who like his brother last year missed the entire tournament due to illness).

In the Reserve Section Arik Milner took first place with a perfect score, Stoyan Petrov came second with 3.5/5. Alex Sabaratnam and Foster won the two U1100 prizes. The tournament was organized and directed by Katherine Davies and Stephen Wright.

MICHAEL FRANETT (1941-2004)

Prominent Washington chess player, editor, and columnist Mike Franett has passed away at the age of sixty-three. A former Washington State Champion and editor of Inside Chess, he was still active as a player, winning against Dan Scoones in last year's B.C. - Washington match: he was also a participant in the 2003 Keres.

B.C. - WASHINGTON MASTER/EXPERT MATCHES

Apart from the main series of B.C. - Washington matches which ran from 1944-1963, there were other occasions on which the chess prowess of the two Pacific Northwest neighbours was contested. At least three small master/expert matches took place in the years 1958-1960, with the home team always emerging the winner. The following report describes the 1958 competition:

Washington Defeats B.C. 5.5 to 2.5 by Dan Wade

"Washington defeated British Columbia 5.5 to 2.5 in a hard fought master-expert 8 board match on Sunday, June 22nd [1958]. The match was held at Olaf Ulvestad Center (in Seattle).

It looked like a bad day for Washington when Viktors Pupols was discovered to be in Tacoma at starting time and Viesturs Seglins was ill and requested a low board.

G.S.G. Patterson had little trouble in disposing of Gerhard Neufahrt to give the home folks a 1-0 lead. Shortly after that, however, Charles Griffiths, who had practically run his opponent off the board, blundered and finally lost. Frank May was the lucky winner. And just before Griffiths tumbled, Dan Wade surrendered to Jack Taylor after blowing away drawing chances.

So the visitors enjoyed a 2-1 lead. Also things looked rough for Jim McCormick and Dr. A. A. Murray in their games. Olaf Ulvestad, playing nicely, won his game to tie up the score and then McCormick, taking advantage of a break or two, managed a win to put Washington ahead.

Elmars Zemgalis proved there is an Elmars by playing a beautiful ending to defeat the B.C. Champion, Elod Macskasy and cinch the match for Washington. And adding the frosting to the victory cake Dr. Murray pulled out of a nearly hopeless situation to win his game and turn what first appeared to be a B.C. triumph into a fairly lop-sided Washington win.

Elmars Zemgalis	1-0	Elod Macskasy
Olaf Ulvestad	1-0	Don Murray
Jim McCormick	1-0	Jack Patty
Charles Griffiths	0-1	Frank May
G.S.G. Patterson	1-0	Gerhard Neufahrt
Daniel E. Wade	0-1	Jack Taylor
Viesturs Seglins	?-?	George Zerkowitz
Dr. A. A. Murray	1-0	Kaj Nielson

Washington had the black pieces on the odd-numbered boards."
