VANCOUVER CLASS CHAMPIONSHIPS 2006

This year's event attracted twenty-eight players to the Vancouver Bridge Centre on the weekend of January 13-15. As with previous editions, the tournament was run as a regular one-section Swiss for the first three rounds, then the participants were paired by class for the last two rounds. Or at least that was the intention; in practice there were too few players for this scheme to be viable, so some of the classes were combined for pairing purposes. Even this was problematic when two players withdrew after round four, but matches were found which followed the spirit if not the letter of the class system, and more importantly everyone had a competitive game in the last round.

[The crosstable is sorted by rating rather than final score, with the line breaks reflecting the sectional divisions.]

The overall winner was a newcomer to B.C. chess, Henrik Marks from the Netherlands, who is currently engaged in research at UBC. An experienced tournament player (he took part in the last two World Opens and also played in the Aeroflot Open in Moscow) with a 2237 FIDE rating, he showed his class by dominating the field and taking first with a perfect score. He also receives the title of Vancouver Champion for this year. Three players tied for second: the oldest participant in the tournament, former B.C. champion Dragoljub Milicevic, and two young experts, Louie Jiang and Noam Davies. Each scored 3.5/5. The four-player "A" section was won by Michael Yip with the same score. In the "B + C" section the prizes were won by two of the lowest-rated players, Jorge Prieto and Stewart Paulson, although judging by his performance Jorge is significantly underrated (his 1552 is based on only four games). The lowest section consisted entirely of juniors; Alex Sabaratnam played a strong game in the last round to tie for first with Tanraj Sohal, each having 3 points. Stephen Wright was the tournament director, aided and abetted by Katherine Davies.

JANUARY SUNDAY/JUNIOR OPEN

Forty-one players took part in the first Sunday/Junior Open of the new year, held at the Vancouver Bridge Centre on January 8. Half of these players participated in the mixed Sunday Open, which was split into two smaller sections because of the numbers. In Open 1 Noam Davies and Michael Yip tied for first with 2.5/3, while Open 2 saw Clyde Chen, David Pash (from Washington State) and Joe Roback take the prizes. In the Junior Open Tanraj Sohal, newcomer David Luo from China, and Hafiz Dhanani were the prize winners in the U1500 section. Michael Levine and Kyle Zheng tied for first in the Booster section with 5/6, and twins Karson and Quincy Welch tied for third. The next event is February 12.

PASCAL CHARBONNEAU, INTERNATIONAL GRANDMASTER

He has been of the requisite strength for some time now, but Canadian Champion (and one-time B.C. resident) Pascal Charbonneau has finally earned the third norm necessary for his grandmaster title. He achieved it in style, too, winning a ten-player Robin Round in Chicago with an undefeated 6/9. Congratulations, Pascal!

DANIEL ALEXANDER MACADAM

This weekend Lynn Stringer will run her annual tournament dedicated to the memory of Dan MacAdam. For those not familiar with this gentleman, we reproduce the following article, written by Philip Jurgens and published in En Passant in 1985:

On May 30, Dan MacAdam will be celebrating his 100th birthday. His name may not readily be associated with chess in the minds of many. Normally, we tend to remember the exceptional players, rather than the exceptional organizers. It must be remembered that talented masters do not emerge out of a vacuum! The hardworking individuals who lay the foundations to ensure that there is support for the players at all levels are instrumental in stimulating interest in the game.

Dan MacAdam is such an individual. He was born in St. Paul, Minnesota on May 30, 1885. He pursued a varied and somewhat nomadic lifestyle, finally settling down in Fredericton, New Brunswick in his late twenties. His job as an express messenger for the Canadian Pacific Railway suited him well, enabling him to travel throughout Canada until his retirement in 1950.

The Montréal - St. John route was MacAdam's last major run with the CPR. He found himself with spare time in St. John and learned to play chess from his brother-in-law. Shortly thereafter, he began organizing chess clubs and tournaments. He was responsible for the rejuvenation of chess throughout the Maritimes, notably in Fredericton, Moncton and Halifax. He helped organize and run several high school clubs in New Brunswick.

Indeed, he was one of those who saw that chess was a sport for the young. He understood that the future lies with junior chess, and he was elected Chairman of the Maritime Youth Committee on more than one occasion. He coordinated interscholastic chess meets and was even involved in the construction of demonstration boards for the school clubs.

Dan MacAdam did not restrict himself to the Maritimes: he served as a Governor and later Vice-President of the Chess Federation of Canada, being active nationally through the 1940's and early 1950's.

He raised substantial money to support Canadian tournaments and to sponsor foreign tours for Abe Yanofsky, Lionel Joyner and Paul Vaitonis.

Within Canada, he organized numerous simultaneous exhibitions. He travelled across Canada several times to foster continued public interest in chess.

Without question, one of his most enduring contributions to Canadian chess lay in the founding of a national chess magazine. In 1947 he started the Maritime Chess Chat which eventually developed into the official bulletin of the Chess Federation of Canada, Canadian Chess Chat.

Under his aegis, the magazine grew from a 2-3 page mimeographed format into a full 45-60 page magazine with photographs, feature stories, Canadian and international news, a problem section, annotated games and both Canadian and US advertisers. Throughout his 9 year term (1947-1956) as editor, his bubbling enthusiasm for chess was evident in every issue. His good humour and friendliness shone forth. For MacAdam, the magazine was a labour of love. He did all the mimeographing, layout and binding himself, often working late into the night. He also absorbed the publication deficits, a reflection of his unselfish dedication to the cause of Canadian chess.

[Editor - Dan MacAdam passed away in Victoria on November 15, 1985, at the age of 100.]
